

Cell Survivor: create video recordings “Survivor” style, arguing why each individual organelle is important to the structure and functioning of cells as a whole

Complete for 3 organelles

Create video recordings to make one desperate attempt to keep each cell organelle from being voted out of the cell. Make a convincing argument as to why each cell organelle is important and the cell cannot survive without it. You will upload a separate video recording for each organelle, and each video should express your reasoning for keeping your cell part.

Your arguments should include:

- What the cell part (organelle) does in the cell?
- What is its role in the characteristics of life?
- Why that function is necessary for cell survival?
- A description of the cell part's structure
- What would happen to the organism if the organelle was missing or malfunctioning?

Your recording should be between 1-2 minutes for each organelle. When you have finished recording your argument, make sure you email or post your video to Edsby via messages
